[Special dispatch to Tribune.]
BALTIMORE, July 6—10 P. M.

The Baltimore and Ohio railroad company has just received intelligence from Sandy Hook, opposite Harper's Ferry, stating that not a rebel had been seen or heard of at Harper's Ferry, or in any part of Maryland, and that it is believed by to-morrow morning there will not be one anywhere in that vicinity. They have skedaddled up the valley, and thought to escape being captured by Hunter.

The Tribune's special, from Monocacy the

The Tribune's Harrisburg special of the 6th says official information here shows that Gen. Grant has notified the War Department that a large portion of the rebel army have left his immediate front, and that a large part of Hunter's force reached Parkersburg on the way east. His advance will reach Cumberland tomorrow morning.

One of our splendid army correspondents, writing from the front, has witnessed one of the most exciting artillery battles of the war. After two hours the rebel batteries were completely silenced and the gunners driven from their places. At 3 o'clock P. M. the rebels opened again furiously, and soon the enemy's line of work was enveloped in continuous clouds of dust, caused by our shells. These were again cut short, and, according to the report, the rebels were running to their rear for places of safety. After two hours more, every rebel battery was silenced.

Our batteries have been placed with great skill and care, so they can at any moment be concentrated on any given point.

Our bombardment of the city is steadily de-

The Tribune's Washington special says Pe- tersburg was a town covered by over one hundred of our guns, and were Gen. Grant to give word for its destruction it would be the work of but a few hours.

A private letter off Charleston says the rebel officers sent there have been placed in comfortable quarters where the rebel shells mostly do fall.

The occasion of the suspension of the habeas corpus and martial law in Kentucky was

The following proclamation was just been issued by the Governor:

It is now ascertained that a large rebel force has been detached from Richmond and is now advancing in a westerly direction as part of our army. A number of the rebels have been captured and are being taken to the City of Washington.

necessary raise immediately a sufficient body of men to repel them. They are already within the borders of the Commonwealth. You have always heretofore been ready to answer the call of your country. You will not be less ready to come forward when your houses and firesides are to be defended against the invader. You are authorized to call for 12,000 volunteers, in addition to those required by my proclamation of yesterday, to serve for 100 days in Pennsylvania, Washington and vicinity. I appeal to the freemen of Pennsylvania to rouse themselves for the necessary effort, and come promptly forward to sweep the invaders from her soil.

The World has information from the front that Wilson's loss has been greatly exaggerated. Four of his guns were recaptured from the enemy.

Notwithstanding the rebel raid into Maryland, the disgraced state of affairs is shared by commercial men in the high price of gold, there is reason to believe favorable military news will soon be made known to the public.

By the measures that have been taken to guard Pennsylvania, it is believed the rebels have not been in sufficient force to do any material damage.

Very good news is expected from Sherman. Nothing less, in fact, than the capture of Atlanta. Military men here say that with the loss of the Kennesaw Mountains the rebels can't hope to hold Atlanta, as there are no positions beyond Chattahoochee at all equal to those this side of it.

Good news is also shortly expected from Grant's army. It is believed Petersburg will shortly be in our possession. It is well understood that nothing the rebels can do by way of the Shenandoah Valley will induce Grant to send any portion of his forces to the defense of Washington. Movements are now under way largely re-enforcing Grant's army by veteran troops from points of less vital importance than Richmond.

New York, July 7.

The World's Washington special says that, notwithstanding wild reports, it is learned that the rebels burnt only one important bridge west of Harper's Ferry, at Chatterson

The Star says Hunter has joined Sigel, and will make short work of the raid.

* HARRISBURG, Pa., July 6.

Dispatches from Chambersburg state that a rebel force, supposed to be Johnston's brigade, entered Hagerstown this afternoon. The Federal force at that place, under Lieutenant McLean, after a spirited resistance, were compelled to fall back on Greencastle, Pa., with which place we still had telegraphic communication.

The city is full of rumors. The following is believed to be correct: Intelligence from Maryland Heights and the region beyond warrants the belief that the rebels are now on this side of the Potomac and on the line of the Virginia side is not less than 30,000.

Advices from Sandy Hook to ten o'clock this morning say that skirmishing was going on back of the heights, but the number of rebels there is small. The rebels can be seen towards Sharpburg, driving off cattle and burning and plundering farmers in the valley. No real force visible.

Advices from Greencastle, Pa. this morning

The railroad is still unobstructed as far as Sandy Hook, opposite Harper's Ferry, and it is believed there is only a small force on the Virginia shore, opposite the town of Beckley. Later in the rebellion Harper's Ferry have destroyed all the railroad property there. The telegraph and ticket office was also burned with a large quantity of forage.

BANGOR, Me., July 7.

A portion of the State guard left this morning for Bangor, Fort McHenry. Among the privates was Vice President Hamlin.

FORTRESS MONROE, July 6.
A steamer arrived this morning from Bermuda Hundred. Nothing new from the front—no battle yet.
